TherapyWorks' Therapists Certified in Kinesio Taping®

Suzette Werner Jones, OTR/L, CKTP, Liesa M. Persaud, PT, MPT, PCS, CKTP, and Laci DiLibero, PTA, CKTP, were recently named Certified Kinesio Taping® Practitioners (CKTP) by the Kinesio Taping® Association International.

Kinesio® tape is an elastic therapeutic tape designed to facilitate and support muscle action or for injury rehabilitation. Kinesio Taping® has widely been used with the pediatric population for many years. TherapyWorks' therapists use Kinesio® tape to correct body alignment in children with poor gait, improve posture from weak muscles, correct the over tightening of muscles found in children with torticollis, sports injuries, congenital conditions and many other diagnoses.

“The process of certification improved my skill level and educated me on a greater variety of techniques and uses for Kinesio® tape. Therefore, I am in a much better position to help my patients,” DiLibero said. “It’s exciting because I have seen many significant improvements in my patients since using Kinesio® tape.”

Jones, the owner and president of TherapyWorks, has more than 30 years experience in pediatric occupational therapy and specializes in treating children with brachial plexus injuries and torticollis. Persaud focuses on evaluating and treating children with abnormal gait and posture and in the casting and fitting of custom-made orthotic devices for children. DiLibero concentrates on early intervention of the birth-3 population and youth sports injuries.

Working wonders in the lives of children ages birth-18, TherapyWorks offers physical, occupational, speech and nutrition therapy at its outpatient clinic in South Tulsa. TherapyWorks helps children with balance, coordination, orthotics, sports injuries, cerebral palsy, Autism Spectrum Disorders, ADHD, sensory processing, Down syndrome, torticollis, fine motor skills, handwriting, speech, language, oral-motor skills, swallowing, feeding, nutrition and many other neurological and physical impairments.

TherapyWorks also provides on-site therapy and staff for schools throughout Northeastern and Central Oklahoma. Founded in 1981, TherapyWorks evolved from a desire to meet the needs of children both in and out of a school setting. Today, TherapyWorks is one of the largest and most respected individually-owned pediatric therapy practices in Oklahoma.
